

COTTONWOOD CREEK – PH1 OVERALL MAP

NEIGHBORHOOD PARK ENLARGEMENT

SUMMARY:

Per the approved Public Art Plan associated with the Cottonwood Creek Master Plan, a public art installation will be designed and constructed within the neighborhood park (PA-55 / Tract N).

Design Ideas:

This public art piece will be located in the neighborhood park within the 'Columbine Village' neighborhood. All neighborhoods within Cottonwood Creek are named for native wildflower species found in Colorado, so the general intent & theme for this piece of public art would center around the concept of a Columbine wildflower. Because of the generally flat nature of this park, it would be preferred that the public art piece has a strong vertical presence, so that it can be used as a placemaker and subsequently tie into the Columbine neighborhood theme.

Timeline:

The timing and construction of this phase is tentatively planned for 2027/2028. The public art piece will be designed and constructed at the time the park is built.

Fee Schedule:

Per the current Public Art Plan associated with the Cottonwood Master Plan, the allocation for total Professional Artist budget is ~$347,000. There are five anticipated public art locations and it's anticipated that each public art piece will split this budget evenly. In turn this public art piece would cost approximately $70,000.
